Craig Hodges, Senior Vice President, Corporate Affairs, Cox Enterprises

Craig Hodges oversees corporate communications, corporate social responsibility, and public affairs for Cox Enterprises, one of America's largest private companies.

Before joining Cox, Hodges served as vice president of global corporate affairs and communications at VF Corporation, the publicly traded parent company to apparel and footwear brands including Vans, The North Face and Timberland.

With more than 25 years of experience in corporate affairs and communications, Hodges also served as a communications executive with Michelin. He began his career on the agency side, first with MSL Group and later Edelman.
